

128-1000
Against the wall

What do you do when your back is against the wall
How do you respond
I for one tend to try and battle my way out
But not anything like James Bond
I used deceit and pretending to be something
Different than I already was
I couldn't face my perceived humiliation
I don't have to give you my because

What do you do when the rug's pulled out from under
How do you recover
I for one tend to say it's not my fault
Refusing to discover
All of the ways that I sabotage myself
In a world that expects more
More than I can ever hope to give
A world that's keeping score

Against the wall
A chance to find
A spot of truth
The lies unwind
Against the wall
Afraid to live
Afraid to die
Afraid to be
Just to be, to be