The best possible chance

The best possible chance to see a shooting star
Is not out of the window of a moving car
Is not after spending a few hours at a bar
It's not when the moon is full shining from afar

The best possible chance to see a shooting star
Is on the coldest winter night
Away from all the city light
And though you may feel a fright
Take that chance

The best possible chance to find your love so true
Is not swimming all alone in the ocean blue
Is not awaking all alone in the morning dew
Is not trying to get rich, and that'll hurt you too

The best possible chance to find your love so true
Is on the coldest winter night
Away from the all the city light
And though you may feel uptight
Take that chance
Choose to dance
