

674-10000
By far, you are

This is the hardest day of all of the days
By far, by so far
This is the day i drive off and and wave goodbye
From my car, my car
This is the dawn when i leave the flowers
At your spot, at your spot
Sometimes a heaving sigh is all i've got, all i've got left

This is the loneliest night of all the nights
By far, by far
I'm lying by myself out on the church lawn
And i'm wishing on a star, a star
I'm thinking about the tired smiles of the friends
You left behind
I wonder, Will it hurt any less for us
With time, with the passing time

This is the moment in which i clearly see
Your are gone, really gone
This is the hour when i also know
That I can carry on, carry on
And as i gaze through the tears
And open to the truth that you both aren't and you are
I also remember that the love we all feel for each other
Is because of you
the most beautiful gift
by far

You are
You are
Though gone
You are
