Can i go now

Can i go now
Can i pack up my belongings and toward the horizon point my bow
Can i live for today, often caring not for how
Can i go now, please, can i go now

Can i check out
Can i burn rubber in the dawn, leaving you without a doubt
Can i drive so fast that i won't hear the echo of your shout
Can i check out, please, can i check out

Can i hit the road
Can i turn on my lovelight and lighten my heavy load
Can i live my life as if with precious grace i was bestowed
Can i hit the road, oh please, can i hit the road

Can i finally run
Can i travel ever westward into the setting sun
Can my feet not leave the pavement until my life is finally done
Can i run, dear god, can i run

Can i
Will i
There is no should
No bad nor good
