Coffee in silence

We drank our coffee in silence
Not a word crossed our lips
The lights went down and we closed the shop
she counted all the tips
Not a day goes by
That i do not recall her eyes
The way she looked at me each day
Truth of words defies

I have loved and I have lost
Wept bitter in the close
I have found solace and comfort
In relationships repose
But there's only one i long for still Three decades and summers on T'was the gal who drank her coffee black
And Who greeted me each dawn

I never spoke to you
About the love i felt
I just shared a fleeting smile
Didn't you see me melt?
And now i wonder what became
Of the love i never knew
The one who shined the brightest
And my coffee who would brew

I would give back all the days I have lived upon this earth
I would miss the moment of my darling daughter's birth
I would search my lifetime in every corner of this world
Just see once more see the smile of my lovely coffee girl

But now silence
Now the end
No more helping Hand to lend
Now silence
Coffee black
Now i know
You won't come back
