How did you know?

How did you know that i'd lost interest in your heart
Was i that transparent or had we simply grown apart
Is it always obvious and should we quick obey
Feelings that are transient, that change from day to day

How did you know that i'd enjoyed another's arms
That titillated i had bowed so deeply to her charms
Does such a moment mean all that's come before is dead
Are decades of camaraderie destroyed in another's bed

How did you know that i was finally ready to move on
That everyday i planned in earnest for the day that i'd be gone
Can two people face that moment with a mature grace
Instead of being drama queens, such energy we waste

Is my poker face that bad, am i that easy to read?
Is my lack of guile simply in the blood i bleed
Or were you ready all along to make yourself a move
And were just waiting for the time to finally find your groove

Truth is it matters not, our unions at end end
I feel no regret or anger, there's nothing to defend
I wish you well and hope that you find joy where e'er you go
But to my grave i'll still wonder the moment you did know

Do we always know
Is it plain to see
The moment we are ready
Finally to be free
Do we always know
Deep inside our soul
The moment we are ready
To finally up and go
