This isn't how it's supposed to be

I marvel at my muffled sobs again and 4am
There was a time not long ago though i don't remember when
The world looked quite familiar, nothing seemed too out of place
But now just can see the wrenching etched upon my face

The smile that i wore with ease is tortured and untrue
It masks how much i shake my head and weep each day for you
And this is life from here on in, i live it breath to breath
Each day another solemn march, each moment one more death

This isn't how it's supposed to be
This isn't what i had in mind
I planned a life and i believed
True happiness i'd find
And maybe joy still lurks below
The gray and roiling sea
And i choke on tears and utter oft
This isn't how it's supposed to be

Lying in my bed at night, and staring at the wall
Wondering when the snows will come, erase the reds of fall
I watch my chest rise and fall, drinking in the air
The love i feel compels me on, and with the world i'll share
