I want to apologize

I want to apologize for the time i up and disappeared
It wasn't you it simply was our life together that i feared
You did nothing wrong and looking back i feel regret
I'm actually quite sorry that i made you feel upset

I want to apologize to all the women to whom i lied
I was young and didn't care, my impulses were my guide
Now i'm single, 54, i guess karma here is just
You are wise to leave me be, i'm difficult to trust

I want to apologize to my daughter and my son
Self-absorbed i've lived my life somewhere on the run
Deep down i truly love you, though i often need to be alone
Tomorrow night from santa fe i'll call you on the phone

I want to apologize to the child in my heart
In fear of feeling sorrow i have torn you apart
There was a time when honestly you felt tremendous joy
In the summer nights you played and laughed like every little boy

I want to say i'm sorry
But my reticence is strong
I know i've made mistakes
I've known it all along
I want to say i'm sorry
But i'll drink a beer instead
And keep my apologia
Safely tucked inside my head
