

144-1000
I was just thinking

I was listening to George Carlin spew his vitriol
Not that i disagree with anything that he extols
His venomous dissection of the world in which we toil
Often Brings my frustration from a simmer to a boil

Now I am first to admit that my anger is often a deflection
A way to not look inward but to call for insurrection
But in this case i feel as though my musings are spot on
I'm speaking of the donald and his monumental con

Before a wax about the man who's mussolini's twin
I need to be quite careful about where i must begin
The truth is that the donald would be no more than a joke
If the wealthy 1%ers didn't leaves all around them broke

The truth in this great country is that we no longer care
Make your millions, buy your yacht, kill others for their share
The grand experiment that we call the USA
Is dying in the wake of our democracy's decay

And that brings me to the donald, the ass of all the asses
Compelling that he's popular even with the lower classes
But Dissonance abounds and i'm amazed by my surprise
That people in America fall prey to all his lies

This episode points out how we are no different than the rest
A Trumpian America is arriving I confess
Like Benito and Augusto the trains will finally run on time
A new age in this drama, our descent into the slime

I was just thinking
Perhaps a bad idea
Maybe i should shut my mouth
Keep my conscience clear
The Donald will be president
Of this i'm confident
And the prisons will be bursting
With all of the dissidents

I was just thinking