I wasn't kidding

I wasn't kidding when i told you
Men would rather not in anger dwell
Rage they deep down know is its own kinda hell
Inside their softer than an egg shell
But you won't know that
And you can't see that
But I wasn't kidding

I wasn't kidding when i told you
That the depth of my sorrow reaches places you'll never know
And the depth of my capacity for love will ever grow
But run from me quickly if you want me not to show
But you won't feel that
And you can't see that
But i wasn't kidding

I wasn't kidding when i told you
That i was e'er ready to jump into the divide
The chasm may be deep but my will is equal wide
And you would know my heart if you were by my side
But you can't understand
For you won't take my hand
And i wasn't kidding
No i wasn't kidding
