

483-1000
if you were young again

If you were young again
climbing high in a tree
What is it that you would see
As you looked back at stories penned
Under autumn skies
Watching time as it flies by
Would you see
A girl in a field
Eyes like the sun
Just watch her run
A boy on the ice
He's taking flight
Like wind on a kite
A child with a dream
She believes she can soar
The hills echo her roar

If you were born again
Climbing higher in that tree
What is it that you would know
As you looked back at tales untold
Witness futures unfold
Under winter skies
Would you see
A girl singing breathless
Her heart on a sleeve
Yes yes she believes
A boy with his friends
In the halls see them run
Could we have much more fun
A child with a dream
In a soul she's reborn
Yet her absence we mourn

If you were young again
Would you see all these things
Would you recall
The love memories bring
As a feeling or thought
On a hilltop once taught
When you were young
When we were young
