

154-1000
I've hidden it

If i'm ashamed of who i am
I've hidden it quite well
Watch me smile and shake your hand
It's pretty hard to tell
If i'm wracked with crippling fear
About the vast unknown
I still pretend a bastion be
A man who's fully grown

Questioning my worthiness
As a father or a son downplaying the many accolades
I recently have won
You wouldn't know it lest i shared
The depth of my self doubt
I've hidden it beneath veneers
While victories i tout

Again i must remind you all
This song's not a lament
In fact my life is fine and I
Am perfectly content
I don't mind hiding how i feel
It's how i learned to dance
I'm just thrilled at 53
To have had the chance