Maybe time will tell

Everybody says that time will tell
If we're just a little patient we will know
Everybody says eventually you'll figure out
Where it is you're supposed to go
Everybody says live and let live
The life you lead is down to fate
Don't forget to smell the roses
Along the way, 'for it's too late

Maybe time will tell
But maybe not
Maybe i'll die wondering
Is this all ive got?
Maybe time will tell
But its no rule
Perhaps believing in time
Makes me a fool

Why is it we all believe that time will heal all wounds
When in time each person here will uncover their own tomb
My is it we talk as if in time we'll all find peace
Is it that in time each of us will be deceased?

Funny how we try to stretch our lives as long as we can To suffer through the such pain a strife but say we're stronger than we 'd gladly choose mortality to avoid the tolling bell
And for eternity we'd still believe that only time will tell
