Most people know

Most people know the truth before you have to tell them
Though they're often happy to avoid it if it doesn't help them
Do you think things are getting worse
Is it 21st century curse
I'm not sure, but i still think most people know

Most people know when love is not what compels them
Angers burning in their belly is a feeling that will haunt them
They may justify it so
But in the end they will still know
They will still know

Most people do not think the way that i do
I believe that sadness is what sits closest to what's true
They all say they're full of joy
And yet they go out and destroy
And call it love just as a ploy
And act all sweet, innocent and coy
But they know
Deep down they know
As most people know
Reality has a way of catching up with us all
