My Frown

My frown
Is not a smile upside down
It's not the enemy of joy
It's just my patience for the boy
When i've too much to do
When my reserves are so few
Dissipates
And then i frown
For the guilt and shame i feel
Is so very real
And i frown
For the love i want to express
Evaporates in my distress
And i frown
For the love i sometimes know
For some reason cannot show
And i frown
I frown

My frown
Is not a smile upside down
It's just a feeling that i get
When by sadness i'm beset
Or overwhelmed by time
And this frown is not a crime
I frown
I frown
