Nothing to do

There's nothing to do even though we're all so busy
We work until we drop, our lives are in a tizzy
We all want to be famous, or rich beyond on dreams
We all want to make a difference, i'm not sure what that means

Everyone is clamoring to to make the most of life
The men are busy trying to entreat the ideal wife
The women all want earrings made from diamonds and from gold
And 7 billion people are in denial of growing old

And the reality is that all we are is future food for worms
They say Time is but the fire in which we all must burn
And Soren was correct when he spoke that famous line
And yet we work until we die, as if all we have is time

But there is nothing to do
There is nowhere to go
Even the richest king of all
Will be buried down below
There is nothing to do
Yet somehow we still think
We need to leave our mark
Oh please just have a drink
