Of the many evils

Of the many evils in which we humans partake
Belying up to the bar of prejudice and hate
Looking to instill fear rather than love create
Of the many many evils, Money reign supreme
Just sit back and consider this
In the name of money
We destroy the lives of millions without a second thought
Because it's in the name of profit we don't even worry we'll get caught
We cash another check on the backs of those who live e'er distraught
And in our schools morals are supposedly what we're taught
In the name of money
We make sure that our planet earth will ne'er recover
Come tell me that you give a shit about your precious mother
And when we finally a new energy source discover
We sell it to the highest bidder for the dollar is our lover
In the name of money
We embrace a violence of consciousness that slowly kills
We ingest poisons and we seem to never get our fill
And all the while the profiteers with their overflowing till
I need a cancer medication but i cant afford the bill
But all of this is not the worst
The depth of our curse
Is that the market economy has created a mentality of predator and pray
How can i get ahead each and every day
Unconsciously we march along and this reality obey
But here me say
It will be our undoing
It already is
It already is
