

46-1000
one man afloat

I was kicking back and thinking the other day staring out the window wondering' how I was going to pay pay for the doctor bills from when I broke my arm pay for electricity to keep my children warm pay for the Internet where all my work is done pay for food and shelter before the money's gone

I am one man afloat
On an sea of expenses my account grows ever smaller yet i've committed no offenses in a world in which the 1% simply can't believe
one man afloat
cannot the math deceive

I am one man afloat
but not for very long more goes out then comes back in something's really wrong a situation dire eventually i'll go bust it's no wonder that the middle class is bathing in mistrust

there must be more like me