Pray and feel

If i prayed for long enough, i'd believe in god
But only through that daily effort would such belief remain
This then proves that god is just a construct in our minds
I know that many in the south find my words profane

But think it about it critically, if you have the will
If one accepts that most of what we are is twixt our ears
Then clearly god is no more than reordered neural cells
And then with faith we temporize the majority of our fears

I'm always struck by how much we believe our feelings true
Like doomers in the webosphere whose apocolypse is nigh
Reading daily predictions that the end of things is close
Their biochemical reality never needs they ponder why

So if you are a questioner and want desperately to believe
Just get on your knees everyday and pray that jesus saves
But if like me you're happy with reality and truth
Just smile and remember that it's faith that makes us slaves

Pray and feel
So surreal
Our Predilection
For science fiction
Why can't we cope
Devoid of hope
In pain that we
Cling to mythology
