Soliloquies

Most people never hear a word that you say
They pretend that they are listening, bop in reparte
But really they only hear the voices in their head
They have no use for dialog, care not for what you've said

The majority of folks are pretty much the same
As they were at the age of 3, despite their adult claim
The evidence lies in the fact that your ideas they ignore
They find you pretty useless and your reflections quite bore

Unless of course you agree with everything they think
Then they call you pal and buy you your next drink
It has nothing to do with understanding, it's just you feel their need
To be the center of the universe, an existential greed

Soliloquies are quite the norm and not all that unique
The outlook for real dialog is actually so bleak
No one really gives a fuck about what dances in your mind
Soliloquies and speeches are one reason humankind

Finds itself in conflict and cannot figure why
Despite supposed efforts millions needless die
Just listen to our leaders who will never hear a word you say
Inferred in their soliloquy is that you must obey
