Stale smoke

The man who walks in the door reeking of stale smoke
The man who no one wants to hear, he tells the racist jokes
The man who drives a jaguar and who thinks he is a king
The man who's married but still likes to swing

These are not bad men
But these are men i disdain
These are not bad men
But being 'round them gives me pain
These are not bad men
But they make me wanna puke
Someday i'll find the courage
To offer my rebuke

The man who says he'll vote for trump just to see you seeth
The man whose body odor makes it difficult to breath
The man who yells at his kids because he likes his rage
The man who dates a woman less than half his age

The man who installs car stereos and thinks that he is cool
He's the one who doesn't know he's such a goddamned fool
And the man who goes to NASCAR because he likes to get real drunk
All these men live lives from which i have consciously shrunk...but...
