That's not a bad pitch

That's not a bad pitch, i even felt convinced
Usually when people talk they noticed i have winced
I tend not believe a word that most people say
It's not because i'm cynical, i'm just built this way

That's not a bad pitch, you may find some support
Hopefully you won't have to lie, your poker face contort
There are people out there who want to lend a hand
They're not altruistic, helping leaves them feeling grand

That's not a bad pitch, though you're asking for a lot $15 and a cup of joe is about all i've got
I know this may sound arrogant, but perhaps you'll want to try
An honest days work instead of snake oil at least once before you die

That's not a bad pitch, but it was just a bit outside
Here's a little helpful hint, and now i will confide
When you have to sell your soul just to make a buck
That's about the time you'll find out most don't give a fuck

I hope you hear this lesson
It arrives free of cost
Concocting a new sales line
For me is a line crossed
For most salespeople the world o'er
Truth comes toward the end
And once they made their nut
You see, it's you to whom they'll lend
