The inner voice

The inner voice
I don't always believe
Sometimes i feel
It tries to deceive me
To relieve me
Of my rationality
But i am bound to it
As it lives inside
And so
With compassion i must listen
But not always heed
My inner voice will be forgiven
Even when it makes me bleed
In pain
You see
This voice
Honestly is arrives
From suffering it derives
Its power
So t'would be silly
For me to cower
But more silly
To concede
to give it too much power
The inner voice
Rascal
Sometimes the hardest question is this
Do i share the contents of its raging
Without engaging it
As truth
Or real
The inner voice
I always have the choice
To hear
To see
But not to act
