

258-1000
Then one day

Then one day she was gone
I didn't know how i should feel
On the one hand i loved her so
A love sublime and surreal

On the other i wished her ill
She was termagant and mean
She scowled like a rabid squirrel
Her teeth a subtle hue of green

But on the other she held me tight
Made love in ways that made me weep
And when the passion was fulfilled
Without me asking would rub my feet

But on the other she robbed me blind
Spent all my money on dinners out
And when i asked her why she did
She kicked and and for many hours pout

But on the other she listened when
I complained about a life unfulfilled
She acted like my greatest fan
And wept with me when lennon was killed

But on the other, oh wait you see
There is no rule women obey
One moment things are really great
But Just wait until another day
