to lose a name

what does it mean to lose your name a reputation tarnished gone when others speak of you infame sometimes hard to carry on what does it mean to hide your eyes creep around in shadows lurk feel disdain despite your tries to convince the world you're not a jerk

I lost my name the other day I thought I had something important to say I did not carefully reflect The power of my words direct

I told them all in angry lust they have violated trust ignorant, I did accuse apologies, I did refuse

I said their efforts are for naught my son nary a thing taught useless are their plans and deeds they don't understand his needs

But honestly I must admit From their work i gain benefit I am broken from despair my son's life no one can repair

And so I lash out blame them all Spit my venom, start a brawl but truth is they are not to blame and now i have lost my name
