

456-1000

When its too much

We sit around the kitchen table, eyes fixed on our plates
Not much conversation, don't wanna tempt the fates
Perhaps a little baseball talk to lighten up the air
A quip about the latest news to seem as though we care

A lifetime of discomfort
We always seem to avoid
The truth about the two of us
So please don't be annoyed
When i shatter the silence
With a statement that is true
The reason we're so distant
Is because is so love you

I love you too much to really be able to show it
Maybe deep down both of us still know it
We pretend to be angry but it's a cover for our fears
We joke and make each other laugh, it keeps away the tears