You're on your own now

Hey, things change
More they they remain the same
When someone tells me not to worry
Not to be in such a hurry
And that their love for me will never end
I know
That every road comes to an end
That sometimes up around the bend
That things will change
And my mantra always and forever
Is just that
You're on your own now
Don't wish for it to not be so
It's the path we all must go
These are the seeds each person must sow
You're on your own now
We're all on our own
Even when we appear surrounded by those who hold us dear
Even when help and comfort always seem to near Remember
Without misgiving or despair
Life is ever so very fair
For we are all
On our own on this trip
We pick ourselves up when we slip
But in the end we steer our ship
For despite friends and those who care
You're on your own now
No need to ask why or how
You're on your own now
We're all
On our own
